

Ernie Majer
Comments on IPCC Geothermal Paper
(via e-mail; received: 5 June 2008)

I was quite impressed by this report, a great job.

I did not read it in detail, but I did not see much discussion about avoidance costs, i.e. if countries start putting a price on CO₂ emissions ($ 20 to $50 per ton) then compared to non renewables the economics would be better obviously. Also, costs of mitigation of climate effects as mentioned in the Stern report would positively affect the economics

Ernie Majer
Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory
USA